

THE DAILY BULLETIN.

MONDAY EVENING, JUNE 25, 1883.

The reason that the mercury to-day goes dropping down, is all because, as we have learned, some ice-men are in town. This sudden coolness coming on, and which their presence brings, is pointing very surely to a frigid stage of things.

WORKMEN are engaged to-day fitting up the new post office on Court street.

AGENTS for the Pictet ice machinery are in Maysville to-day in consultation with our local company.

THE President has appointed Capt. S. Phelps, of the District of Columbia, Minister to Peru, and Richard Gibbs, of New York, Minister to Bolivia.

REV. C. B. HEDGINS, of Henderson, Ky., has accepted a call as pastor of the Church of the Nativity, and will arrive here about the middle of the next month.

THE repairs to the steamer Handy, having been completed at Cincinnati, she will resume her place in her regular trade to-day. She is as neat as a new pin and comparatively a new boat.

SEVERAL of the Magistrates of this county have failed to execute bond as required by law. If this not done by the 30th day of the present month their respective offices will be declared vacant.

JAMES JONES, colored, had his trial before Judge W. P. Coons, this morning, on the charge of stealing an overcoat. He was adjudged guilty and sent to the county jail for one month at hard labor.

THE Sheriff of Lewis county passed through Maysville, this morning, on his way to Frankfort with W. X. Thomas, who goes to the penitentiary for one year for obtaining money under false pretenses.

THE Maysville Base Ball Club will go to Lexington, on Friday, to play a game with a picked nine of that city. Any one who wishes to go can get the benefit of reduced railroad fare by applying to Mr. W. H. Lynch, at Lynch's shoe store, on Market street.

AVOID by all means the use of calomel for bilious complaints. Ayer's Cathartic Pills, compounded entirely of vegetable ingredients, have been tested for forty years, and acknowledged to be the best remedy ever devised for torpidity of the liver, costiveness and all derangements of the digestive apparatus.

MR. FRANK R. PHISTER who has built up a large and prosperous trade in the book and stationery business, desires to engage in another branch of trade, and with that end in view offers his stock of goods for sale. We happen to know that the stock is fresh and that the business opportunity is a good one.

Fine Horse Sold.

Mose Daulton & Bro. sold, last week, to Phil. Sowash, of Irwin, Pa., a fine bay gelding, by a son of Alf. Norman, sire of Lulu 2:15; 1st dam by Blackspot, 2nd dam by Whalebone, &c., for $400. This is said to be the most promising horse that has left this county for some years.

Steamboat Opposition.

The steamer G. W. Thompson, under the command of Capt. J. C. Ernew, has entered the Maysville and Vanceburg trade in opposition to the Handy, and from present indications it looks like the fight is going to be a warm one. The fare between the places named has been reduced to twenty-five cents.

PERSONALS.

Mr. Hiram Pearce, of Cincinnati, is in Maysville to-day.

Mr. Thomas A. Davis, of Cincinnati, is in the city to-day.

Mr. Thomas Y. Nesbitt has returned from Owingsville.

Mr. John S. Jones, will preside at the Blue Lick Springs again this season.

Hon. J. M. Nesbitt, of Owingsville, is the guest of his son, Mr. Thomas Y. Nesbitt.

Mr. W. J. Kehoe, of the Cynthiana Democrat, is visiting his friends in Maysville.

Miss Lizzie Burrows, who has been visiting friends at Cincinnati, is at home again.

Mr. Henry Wood, who represents the firm of Buhr & Mendte, of Cincinnati, is in the city to-day.

Mrs. Anna Fay and Miss Lizzie Gregg, of Germantown, are the guests of the family of Dr. Holton.

Mr. James Kehoe, who has been visiting friends at Winchester, Ky., returned home Saturday evening.

Mr. Abe Colvin, who has been living at Peora, Ill., for several months, past is in Maysville on a visit to his friends.

Miss Nettie Scudder, daughter of Rev. H. M. Scudder will be married at Elizaville, to-morrow, to Mr. Crane, of Hillsboro.

Letter From the Far West.

BISMARCK, DAKOTA, June 15th 1883. Editor Bulletin: Believing that you have no correspondent at this point, and that a letter might not be uninteresting, I take the liberty of writing to you. I left your city on May 28th, and arrived in Chicago the 29th, and was out early on the morning of the 30th—Decoration Day—to witness the procession of the Grand Army of the Republic as it marched to the graves of the Federal and Confederate braves. Everything was conducted upon a grand scale, and the ceremonies were very imposing, but were sadly marred by the torrents of rain that began to fall about noon. No distinction was made at the graves, and the memory of the Confederates seemed to be as tenderly cherished as that of the Federals. My business detained me a week in Chicago, and then, finding that I would have to remain for some time, or make a second trip, I concluded to take a trip on the North Pacific Railroad and visit the famous wheat lands of Minnesota and Dakota.

Leaving Chicago on the morning of June 5th, the next morning found me at St. Paul, 419 miles on my way. I passed through a fine and thickly settled country, and one abounding in numerous small lakes that were filled with the best of fish. The road from LaCrosse—where we crossed the Mississippi and where Brick Pomeroy got his start—ran along the banks of that river for 150 miles, and the scenery was lovely. St. Paul is a handsomely built city of eighty-five thousand inhabitants, and its sister city, Minneapolis, of ninety-five thousand, is only eight miles distant. Both are rapidly increasing and in ten years will be one city of half a million.

My next stopping place was two hundred and thirty-four miles west of St. Paul, at Fergus Falls, a city of six thousand inhabitants, and situated on the Black Hills branch of the North Pacific, at its crossing with the Chicago and Manitoba Railroad. The Red River of the North runs through the center of the city, and has a fall of eighty-five feet within the city limits, and affords the finest water power in the west. This city is the result of a few years of northern industry, aided by some Scotch capital, and having all the latest modern improvements, in the way of electric light, water works, street cars, &c., and a rich agricultural country to back it, is destined to be the leading city of Western Minnesota. There is a beautiful lake near the center of the city, and I bought a charming site for a dwelling, and have options on many others, if any of your readers desire to invest. My next stop was at Fargo and Morehead. Both cities are located on Red river, the former on the west side, with a population of 10,000, and the latter on the east side with 6,000. After leaving Fargo, which is located in Dakota I soon began to pass through the wheat lands, and had a fine view of Dalrymple farm of 20,000 acres. There are no fences in Dakota and none required unless a man has stock. All owners of cattle, hogs, sheep, &c., have to have them herded or penned. A Maysville regiment of hogs would stand a poor show in Dakota, if left at large. The wheat is all planted in the spring, and was in fine condition. The largest field of wheat that I saw contained thirty square miles, and I saw many of them that covered five and ten square miles. There is still a great deal of land in the Eastern Dakota wheat region that is not taken, and actual settlers can get 160 acres as a homestead, and 160 acres on tree claim, and if one has grown sons they can pre-empt 160 more, or splendid lands can be purchased of the railroad for from $3 to $5 per acre.

Jamestown was the next point of importance, it is situated in the James river valley, 368 miles west of St. Paul, and is the center of the valley wheat region. Nearly all the lands in fifty miles of this place are taken, and nearly all of the settlers are from Michigan. I arrived at Bismarck, 470 miles west of St. Paul, on June 9th, and found the city thronged with people from all parts of the United States. The Capitol was located at this point on June 2nd, and real estate was booming. Lots on the main streets were selling at $300 to $500 per front foot, and the day I arrived the deposits at the First National Bank were $1,260,000. Five hundred new buildings were under contract, and plans were prepared for the capitol building and penitentiary. This city is on the line of the North Pacific, at the crossing of the Missouri River, and the North Western R. R., and the Manitoba R. R., are rapidly building to it. The population is now 3,500 and they claim that it will be 50,000, in twelve months. Fine farming lands within six and eight miles of this city, can still be bought for $5 and $8, an acre and ten miles out, you can buy for $3 and $4 an acre. The next place I visited was Richardson, in Stark county Dakota, one hundred miles West of Bismarck, and just one thousand miles West of Chicago. This town was commenced in March last, and now has fifty buildings, including a handsome hotel fine stores, livery stable, lumber yard, school house, and an elegant depot costing $3,000. The town was founded by the Steamship house of C. C. Richard & Co., New York, and bids fair to be a large place—water works and elevator are under contract. I made purchases of lots, also farming lands at this point, and saw no finer land while I was gone, than extends for twenty miles in all directions from this place. The Government lands are open to actual settlers, free, and the best of the railroad lands can be purchased within three miles, for $3.50 to $4.80 an acre. This entire country is rich in deposits of lignite coal, and water is abundant at from sixteen to thirty feet. I saw a great many antelopes in the two days I was riding over the prairies and inspecting lands. If any of your readers should desire to make any purchases in this country, or locate in same, I will be glad to give them all the information in my power. I was anxious to examine the lands in Montana, but my time being limited, I was compelled to turn back, and to-morrow I start for Chicago.

A Michigan woman describes her absconding husband as of "a fried pork complexion." The detective exultingly made note of it.

The reason "Jerseys" are becoming so popular is because good dress makers are growing more and more scarce every year, and "Jerseys" fit without the aid of these exasperating people. Country girls can now have well-fitting waists, like their city sisters, thanks to the "Jerseys."

A St. Louis young lady, who has just completed her education for the stage, enumerates her qualifications: "My voice is in perfect form and well-trained, and I sing alto and soprano with equal ease. I am a splendid dancer—can dance any fancy dance, and can play the banjo, guitar, violin and harp. Among other talents it may be mentioned that she has dark brown eyes and 'splendid hair.'" She has also been in a Chicago "beauty show."
